

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion. The number of people aged 65 and over has increased from 200 million to 350 million. The number of people aged 15–64 years has increased from 1.5 billion to 2.0 billion.

There are a number of factors that have contributed to the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are surviving into old age. This is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a decline in the number of people who are dying from infectious diseases.

Another factor is the increase in the number of people who are having children. This is due to a number of factors, including a decline in the number of people who are having children at a young age, and a decline in the number of people who are having children at all. This is due to a number of factors, including a decline in the number of people who are having children at a young age, and a decline in the number of people who are having children at all.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that requires a number of different approaches to be taken. One of the main approaches is to improve the quality of life for people in the world who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by improving the quality of education, and by improving the quality of health care.

Another approach is to reduce the number of people who are having children. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that requires a number of different approaches to be taken. One of the main approaches is to improve the quality of life for people in the world who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by improving the quality of education, and by improving the quality of health care.

Another approach is to reduce the number of people who are having children. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that requires a number of different approaches to be taken. One of the main approaches is to improve the quality of life for people in the world who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by improving the quality of education, and by improving the quality of health care.

Another approach is to reduce the number of people who are having children. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that requires a number of different approaches to be taken. One of the main approaches is to improve the quality of life for people in the world who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by improving the quality of education, and by improving the quality of health care.

Another approach is to reduce the number of people who are having children. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that requires a number of different approaches to be taken. One of the main approaches is to improve the quality of life for people in the world who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by improving the quality of education, and by improving the quality of health care.

Another approach is to reduce the number of people who are having children. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning. This can be done by providing people with access to family planning services, and by providing people with information about the benefits of family planning.

